VILLA PRESENTS PLANS

General Villa Demands Absolute Separation of Civil and Military Branches of Government.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, June 18.—While administration officials said today they still had hopes for a successful outcome of the mediation at Niagara, they were more doubtful than they have been at any time probably since the conference began.
Officials close to the president feel that the publication of the note of yesterday, disclosing anew that the Mexican delegates are consistently holding out for a Huerta adherence for the provisional presidency.
White House officials said that when the reply of the American delegates to General Carranza's note was published, it would be sufficient plan for the attitude of the United States.

Villa's Plans.
El Paso, Texas, June 18.—That General Villa has presented an ultimatum to General Carranza, demanding that absolute separation of the civil and military branches of the constitutional government, was the substance of dispatches received at constitutional headquarters in Piedras Negras today.
A committee of three officers was said now to be in conference with General Carranza at Saltillo, presented General Villa's plans.
Carranza's reply is expected today.

Washington, June 18.—Representative Kent of California told the president and Secretary Bryan today that he had telegraphic information from General Carranza that Carranza was about to leave his headquarters and flee to Laredo, Texas. Mr. Kent did not give the name of his informant.

Demands Control.
Eagle Pass, Texas, June 18.—According to constitutional officials at Piedras Negras, General Villa's plan is as follows:
First—Villa to have complete control of the army and to direct the military policy without interference.
Second—Villa agrees to recognize Carranza as his superior provided Carranza accedes to his recognition as supreme military commander.

Third—The promotion of officers and the disposition of their commands to be in Villa's hands.
Constitutionalists express their belief that if these demands are accrued, General Villa would proceed with the campaign and take personal command of the force in the field.
The third cause of Villa's alleged ultimatum was accorded here as a direct answer to General Carranza's promotion of General Natera to command the division of the center and his resulting disastrous attacks on Zacarias.

Officials of the Piedras Negras garrison express sympathy with General Villa and the opinion that his demands would be met.

GOLD CUP RACE TODAY AT ASCOT RACE TRACK

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Ascot, Eng., June 18.—The beautiful Ascot race track was again the scene of a brilliant royal procession today, for King George and Queen Mary with their guests drove in state from Windsor Castle to witness the race for the Gold Cup, one of the most coveted trophies in Europe. It was in this race last year that a male suffrage ette pulled down August Belmont's entry Tracery, just when the American horse appeared to be winning, and in view of suffrage activity special precautions were taken to prevent a repetition of the outrage. The Gold Cup presented by King George, was worth $2,500 with $17,000 in specie.

FAVOR FAIR TRIAL OF RESERVE SYSTEM

Bankers of Group No. 2 Express Opinions on New Federal Banking Law.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., June 18.—Leading bankers of Group No. 2, Wisconsin Bankers' association, favored a fair trial of the federal reserve act, according to expressions made at the annual meeting which closed last night. A. W. Kopp of Plattville, former congressman, said it is a duty incumbent on bankers to see that the new law is given a fair trial and made as complete a success as possible. Mr.
Kopp acted as toastmaster at the banquet last night. W. D. Curtis, Madison, retiring president of the association, criticized the system of regional banks, preferring one central bank.
M. Clancy, Stoughton, was also partial to the central institution idea.
Officers elected were: President, E.
B. Stenstrom; Madison; vice president, Marcus C. Birch; Richland Center; secretary-treasurer, O. E. Gray, Plattville; delegate to state convention, Milwaukee—W. D. Curtis, Madison.

A resolution was adopted endorsing the stand taken by Commissioner of Banking A. E. Knott in withholding approval of a new bank at Mosinee, where banking facilities are already adequate for a place of its size, according to his findings. The case is now on appeal before the governor.
A resolution was also adopted endorsing the stand taken by Commissioner of Banking A. E. Knott in withholding approval of a new bank at Mosinee,
where banking facilities are already
adequate for a place of its size, according to his findings. The case is now on appeal before the governor.

Bankers' Views.
J. M. Clancy, Stoughton, at last night's banquet deplored the planting of a bank's money in remote structures and furnishings, out of all portion with the capital and surroundings. He also advised the absolute cessation of all solicitation to secure deposits. It was not in keeping with a banker's dignity, he believed.
"The banker who adheres to the rule of 'live and let live' and treats clients fairly will never lack for business, and will enjoy a steady growth and permanent prosperity," said Mr.
Clancy.
He advised bankers not to be a competing borrower with institutions which are building up the community.
Places of unethical methods, rival bankers are often enemies instead of friends, always seeking reprisals, he said.
Sol Levitan, Madison, well known in business and politics, believed every banker should take an intelligent interest in politics and legislation, for the good of the community. He deplored crooked politics. He advised bankers to come to Madison and see the passage of good banking laws and discourage legislation affecting banks injuriously. Mr. Levitan said that bankers of ripe age and experience are needed in the banking business fully as much as the younger type about whom much had been said earlier in the day. Mr. Levitan came to this country in 1890, and has been in charge of American and foreign commerce on his back. Today he is vice president of the Commercial National Bank of this city.

INMATES SAVE JAIL FROM FLAMES TODAY

Fifty-Three Prisoners of Milwaukee Institution Aid in Checking Flames in Barn.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Milwaukee, June 18.—Fifty-three prisoners of the Milwaukee house of correction got their names on the honor roll today, when they placed their lives in jeopardy in fighting a fire which destroyed the big barn in connection with the house of correction at North Milwaukee.
Nineteen head of Holstein cattle, fourteen horses and a large amount of machinery were saved by the prisoners, while the building, valued at $12,000, was destroyed.
"The prisoners did a noble service," said Superintendent E. H. Hartke. "I believe that some of the cattle might have perished if they had not acted in the way they did. The prisoners also saved some machinery, but we could not get it all out."

TIMLIN'S OPINION ATTACKS EUGENICS LAW AS OBNOXIOUS

Although Concurring in the Validity Part of Decision He "Has No Sympathy With This Statute."

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., June 18.—"The form of the certificate itself is a sort of an insult," says Justice W. H. Timlin of the supreme court, in a concurring opinion in the case involving the so-called eugenics law, which was sustained by the court yesterday. Justice Timlin does not agree fully with all the reasoning in the majority opinion, but takes his greatest exception to the certificate which the physician must sign upon making a satisfactory examination of the male applicant for a marriage license. He refers to this certificate as a "scotch year of not proven," and he characterizes the statute in all its parts as, in his opinion, "about as silly and obnoxious as any piece of legislation as could be devised."

Question of Validity.
"But the ineffectiveness of the law, or its folly, if it is foolish, or the fact that it was passed in a modern spirit of legislation, is quite remote from the question of its constitutionality," continues Justice Timlin's concurring opinion. "The people must learn to decide. If the legislature believes in the enactment of laws which however unwise and absurd are still within the constitutional power of the legislature, it will be for the benefit of both the people and the legislature to recognize this responsibility, and to know that they cannot look to the legislature for relief in every case of an objectionable nature. So long as the legislature believes there was enough venereal disease in this state to justify the enactment of the statute in question, we cannot gainsay it, for that was a matter for the legislature to decide. If the legislature believed the people of this state by making it appear that venereal diseases were prevalent here, when, in fact, they were not, the members of that body must for such error answer to the electors and not to the supreme court."

Justice Timlin says that the law often alluded to as the "eugenics marriage law" has little relation to that pseudo science called eugenics. He tracing at some length the history of the statute, Judge Timlin says:
"For my part I have no sympathy with this statute. It tends to discourage marriage rather than to prevent the spread of venereal disease. All experience goes to show that laws making marriage expensive or difficult or subject to onerous requirements tend to increase illegitimate sexual intercourse. In case a marriage engagement is announced a year or thereabouts before marriage, and the prospective groom fails to fulfill his obligation, and must either break the engagement or resort to scandalous or mortifying appeal to the county judge, neither the bride nor her parents are allowed to disclose any matter relating or pertaining to the examination of the applicant for license to marry. This may be a great damage to the girl, give rise to unworthy suspicion or gossip, and the penalties imposed on persons making such disclosure are, I think, exorbitant and unreasonable, as are those imposed on the county clerk who will unlawfully issue a license. But think this part of the act can be held invalid without affecting the validity of that portion of the act requiring an examination and certificate from a licensed physician."

Justice John Barnes filed a one-line concurring opinion in which he says:
"I concur in the result, but do not agree with all that is said in the opinion."

PLAYGROUND CONSTRUCTION WORK WAS STARTED TODAY

Work on the construction of the two new playgrounds at the Washington and Adams schools was begun this morning. The large frames which will be erected are being constructed by workmen who will have them completed by Monday when the instructor will arrive to superintend the work of placing them in their correct positions. The apparatus will be the same as it is at present on the other two grounds.

T. R. DOESN'T SEEK GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

Colonel Makes Significant and Inimuating Remark as He Embarks for United States.

Southampton, England, June 18.—
"I will make just one reference to politics. I will not run for governor of New York," said Colonel Roosevelt, as he was about to embark on the Imperator for New York.
Colonel Roosevelt suffered from a sharp attack of chill while on board the tender. It was the first occasion on which he had felt the chill since he left New York. He explained it was merely a recurrence of the effect of the jungle fever which was to be expected.
His cousin, Philip J. Roosevelt, announced that the colonel was not suffering from any disease of the larynx, but from weakness which would prevent him from speaking from the platform at the time of his exposures. He said, however, that the colonel expected to fill the engagement at Pittsburgh on June 30.
Friends Bid Farewell.
London, June 18.—When Colonel Roosevelt arrived at Waterloo station today to take the regular steamer train for Southampton on his return trip to the United States, a large crowd of friends had gathered to bid farewell. Among them were Walter Hays, American ambassador, with the staff of the embassy, and Admiral Lord Jellicoe, here for the first time.

Colonel Roosevelt, who had arranged to embark on the Imperator, was in a very cheerful mood. He said to the reporters, "I feel about like a man who has been through a bad day and is now at home. I have been treated by everybody. I was particularly pleased with the courtesy shown me when I addressed the Royal Geographical Society."

MORGANTHAU PROBES AFFAIRS IN TURKEY

U. S. Ambassador Will Take Precautions to Guard Americans in Case of Uprising.

Constantinople, Turkey, June 18.— Henry Morgenthau, United States ambassador to Turkey, today sent Hor-atio B. Hilditch, British embassy, to Smyrna, to ascertain the position there of American citizens who might be placed in danger by the threatened anti-Christian uprising, in Asia Minor.
Turkish refugees from the south said that they have been driven out by the Greeks. They have arrived on the Asiatic coast, and have taken possession of the entire place, which was deserted by former Greek inhabitants, who have crossed over to the islands of Chios and Mytilene.
There has been some pillaging in the district along the coast of Asia Minor and together with the position there is generally regarded as a dangerous one, although Turkish officials are using great effort to keep the people in check.

At the same time preparations are being made by the Turkish authorities to meet any possible Greek attack.
The Turkish minister of war has gone to Smyrna and the Turkish troops have been ordered to the entrance to the gulf.

SHANGHAI SAILOR TO ESCAPE PRISON

Convicted Forger Substitutes Sailor
Who is Brought to California Prison to Serve Term.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
San Francisco, June 18.—Peter A.
Grimes, convicted of forgery in Shanghai, and on his way to San Quentin penitentiary, California, shanghai-ed Alfred Johansen, a Norwegian sailor, in Nagasaki, Japan, substituting the sailor for Grimes, and escaped, according to information developed today in a searching investigation by a federal officer.
Not until Johansen, in a cell at San Quentin, told his story to a fellow Norwegian, was it discovered that an innocent man was probably serving the three years' term of Grimes. Johansen does not speak English.

MOVES TO QUASH WRIT INTENDED TO COMPEL ERECTION OF BUILDINGS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., June 18.—Attorney General Owen appeared before the supreme court yesterday afternoon and entered a motion to quash the alternative writ of mandamus issued from the court and intended to compel the erection of new buildings at the Stout Manual Training School, Menomonie. Chief Justice Winslow said the attorney general would have twenty days to file a complete answer and the case will be placed on the first assignment at the fall term. Attorneys John A. Aylward and M. B.
Olbright of this city represented the Stout institution.

The supreme court, after receiving the 1914 law class of the university, adjourned sine die. It will probably convene on the second Tuesday in August.

STILL HAVE HOPES FOR ARCTIC VESSEL MISSING FOR YEAR

Karluk, Flagship of Stefansson Expedition Last in Ice Fields of Arctic.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Seattle, Wash., June 17.—One year ago tonight the old 320-ton wooden whaling steamer Karluk, flagship of the Canadian government's Arctic exploring expedition under command of Vilhjalm Stefansson, sailed from Victoria, B. C., for Nome, Alaska. She is now locked in the polar ice or sunk beneath it.
After buying dogs and supplies at Nome and stopping at Port Clarence, Alaska, to make the final distribution of men and cargo among the three vessels of the fleet, the Karluk pointed toward Berings Strait July 27, 1913.
She encountered ice in the Arctic the heaviest ice ever known in midsummer, and was unable to make the stop which she had planned at Point Barrow, the northernmost projection of Alaska. She was carried east of the point to longitude 150, and on September 10 was apparently frozen fast for the winter. Ten days later Stefansson, feeling sure that the ship was in a hopeless position, ordered the crew to get into the Arctic shore with two white men, two Eskimos and dog teams, to hunt caribou to provide the Karluk with fresh meat. On September 22 a violent gale sprang up which broke the ice.
When Stefansson and his companions returned to the shore at Beechy Point September 25 the Karluk was not to be seen. The Eskimos, never lost sight of the ship, arrived at Point Barrow, and on arrival there were told by an old Eskimo that he had sighted with his spyglass the Karluk drifting west, in the first week of October.

Eskimos See Ship.
Stefansson and his associates, seeking the other vessels of their expedition, at once moved eastward toward the Mackenzie delta. In January of the present year Stefansson was told that an Eskimo had seen the Karluk steaming east past the north-end of Richmond Island, east of the delta of the Mackenzie, some about the middle of October. No white man has seen the Karluk since Stefansson left the ship on September 20 last, and there is an inclination among navigators to discredit the reports of the Eskimos who said they saw the
Fear Wreck.
Stefansson and Peary have both expressed themselves as confident that the Karluk is still in the ice. Both have the most faith in the ability of Capt. Robert A. Bartlett, her commander. Capt. Bartlett, a former admiral, is a man of the south pole, and has been compelled by lack of plans to abandon his project, to sail to Point Barrow with his wooden iceboat Peary next August and permit the Fram to be frozen in. Capt.
Bartlett, however, is confident that the Karluk will be able to break through the ice and reach the coast.
He believed that the ice would carry him northeastward perhaps across the pole, and would probably deliver him upon the coast of Greenland. Capt. Bartlett is a member of the Arctic expedition of the United States, and is one of the best known of Arctic navigators, whose schooner Transit was crushed by the ice and sank near Point Barrow last year. He fears that the Karluk's sides were not strong enough to withstand the squeeze of the ice. The Fram, he says, is built with a hull that would be hoisted up by the ice closing upon it, whereas the Karluk might be destroyed in such a grip.

Still Hold Hope.
The Arctic shore is patrolled by Eskimo hunters during the summer, and it is believed that the Karluk, if any comes ashore, is likely to be picked up.
Stories placed in circulation last summer to the effect that Bartlett had been against going north in the Karluk because she was unseaworthy, and that Bartlett and Stefansson had disagreed concerning the management of the expedition, have been emphatically denied by the officers of the expedition, and by fellowship among men has prevailed.

On the Karluk after Stefansson and his comrades went ashore to hunt last summer were 24 persons, including Captain Bartlett, Henri Beauchamp, an anthropologist; Birnie Mamen, topo-grapher; Dr. Alister Forbes Mackay, surgeon; George S. Mallock, geologist; Vern L. Lewis, biologist; and James Murray, oceanographer. The remainder of the party was made up of ships officers and crew.
The Karluk was provisioned for five years, and the government has asked the Russian government to keep a lookout for the ship.

MAKE APPLICATION FOR BANK RECEIVER

Application for a Receiver to La Salle Street Bank Made in Cook County Court.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, June 18.—Application for a receiver for the La Salle Street Trust & Savings Bank was made today by Attorney General P. H. Lucy, in Cook county circuit court. The petition was based on the report of the state bank examiners showing a depleted condition of the bank's assets.
Another Bank Shut.
Alton, Ill., June 18.—The People's Bank in East Alton, Ill., one of the chain of Munday banks, was closed today by a receiver appointed by the federal district court at Springfield, Ill. The bank is capitalized at $25,000. There had been a run on the bank since Monday.

DUKE PAYS RENT FOR BIG ESTATE WITH FLAG

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
London, June 18.—Today being the anniversary of the battle of Waterloo, it was for the Duke of Wellington, but his grace did not have to dive into his pocket very deeply, and it was with an air of unconcern that he drove over to Windsor Castle to present King George with the little silk flag on a silver staff, which covers the rent of his big Stratfield Saye estate for the ensuing year. The estate was presented by the nation to the victor of Waterloo, and cost originally $1,315,000, and under the act of parliament every duke of Wellington is required to present a replica of one of the French standards captured by his ancestors on the anniversary of the battle. Failing the payment of this "possession rent" the estate reverts to the crown, but as the flag costs only twenty dollars there is no reason why any holder of the title should sleep on his liability or being late in payment.

FEDERATION CLOSES BIENNIAL SESSION

Most Successful Convention Women's Clubs Have Held, Says President Mrs. Peunybaker.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, June 18.—The greatest convention ever held by the general federation of women's clubs ended here this morning with a session of the board of directors. Mrs. Percy V. Peunybaker, re-elected president of the organization, was authority for the statement that this biennial was the largest and most important important in its history. More than six hundred and seventy clubs have come into the federation.

Mrs. Percy V. Peunybaker.

In the two years since the last biennial convention, the women's clubs have made great progress. Several hundred women inspected the torn down convention hall today and not a few of them had bruises to treat as the result of the crush to get into the hall. The program for the closing general meeting, at which Margaret Wilson, daughter of the president, attracted the most attention. Thousands called to obtain admission to the hall. Police were called and many women fainted in the crowded hall, and some of the speakers could not get in.
Mrs. Peunybaker's address was the first of the three minute speeches to be delivered by young women. She urged the use of the public school buildings as community centers.
"Every town should have a salaried civil secretaries employed to promote the organization of citizens," said Miss Wilson. "The principle of the schools should receive additional pay for acting as the secretaries of neighborhood organizations. People must work together, and they can't work together if they don't act together." With the general federation of women's clubs concluded, the general council of the state federation will be allowed to vote on two important questions.
The first is whether to amend the constitution to divide the governing body of the federation into an upper and lower house. The second, looking to a more equitable territorial distribution of directors, suggested that the country be divided into districts, each of which shall elect one director.
At present there are six directors, four of whom reside in the middle west.

TRY TO WRECK TRAIN WHICH CARRIES CZAR

Would-Be Assassins of Entire Russian Royal Family Place Bomb on Tracks.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Berlin, June 18.—An attempt was made near Tschudovo, Russia, today, to blow up the Russian imperial train carrying the Emperor of Russia and his family. Near St. Petersburg a bomb was found on the track, and the postal train which was preceding the imperial train as pilot, struck the bomb and caused it to explode. Many of the coaches of the mail train were damaged, and several persons were injured.
The emperor and his family on the imperial train, passed the spot a few minutes later, and arrived at Tschudovo without further incident. They were on their way from Kishinyov on the return journey from their recent visit to King Charles of Roumania, at Kustendy.

Official Denial Made

St. Petersburg, June 18.—It was officially stated today that the wreck of the postal train at Tschudovo, while preceding the imperial train, carrying the emperor and the imperial family from Kishinyov to St. Petersburg, was placed to a defect in the locomotive.
The locomotive of the mail train as well as three freight cars, were thrown off the track, and train employees suffered injuries.
The report that the accident was brought about in an attempt on the lives of the imperial family was officially denied unfounded.

LAND WAR SUPPLIES FOR ULSTER FORCES

Torpedo Boats Sent to Patrol Coast, Preventing Landing of Munitions of War in Ireland.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Dublin, Ireland, June 18.—Large quantities of rifles and ammunition were landed during the night on the Connemara coast in the west of Ireland by the nationalist volunteers.
The volunteers are reported to have been brought by mysterious vessels which had been sighted cruising along the coast for a week past, and they refused to reply to any signals.
The rifles are said to be of the latest American patterns.
Torpedo boats have been ordered to control the coast to prevent further boat runnings.

COUNSEL CLAIMS EMPRESS OF IRELAND STEERING GEAR WAS JAMMED.

STEERING GEAR CAUSE

Quartermaster, Who Was At Wheel, Alleged to Have Made Statement of Defective Equipment.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Quebec, June 18.—C. S. Height of counsel for the owners of the collier Storstad, which rammed and sunk the steamer Empress of Ireland in the St.
Lawrence river, with a loss of more than a thousand lives, today startled the commission which is investigating the disaster, with a statement that word had reached him that on the night of the disaster the steering gear of the Empress was disabled. He had been so informed, he said, by Quartermaster Galloway of the Empress, about to depart for England.
Lord Mersey, chairman of the court of inquiry, immediately took a hand in the proceeding, and it was stated that Galloway would be called as a witness this afternoon. Galloway was at the wheel at the time of the accident, and according to Height's statement said the Empress' steering gear was jammed.

Captain Kendall of the Empress repudiated Galloway's story, as did Chief Engineer Sampson.
Captain Walsh, marine superintendent of the Canadian Pacific railroad, said that the Empress' steering gear was in good condition, and that any attempt had been made to get Galloway out of the country as the quartermaster alleged had been tried.

COLLISION CRIPPLES KAISER WILHELM II

Big German Liner Transfers Passengers to Sister Ship and is Docked for Repair.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Southampton, June 18.—The Kaiser Wilhelm II, of the North German Lloyd line, entered the dock this morning. Divers immediately began to examine her hull in order to ascertain the extent of the damage sustained below the water line. In the collision yesterday with the British steamer, Incomore.

It was known on her arrival that the Kaiser Wilhelm II had a hole in her starboard side. The damage of her upper works was only a trifle.
Arrangements were made at once to transfer the passengers to the Incomore, which is to leave Southampton for New York today.
The captain of the Incomore declined to make any statement regarding the collision.
The Kaiser Wilhelm II, of the North German Lloyd line, today issued the following statement concerning the collision between the Kaiser Wilhelm II, and the Incomore.
"The Kaiser Wilhelm II was struck on the starboard side opposite the third group of boilers. She sprang a leak, which easily could have been checked under control. The damage of the Kaiser Wilhelm II is less than at first supposed. Repairs require only a short time and will be undertaken at Southampton."

OREGON PIONEERS MEET FOR TWO DAY CONVENTION

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Portland, Ore., June 18.—Reminiscences of the early days of hardships of the plains, and the terrors of the Indian hostilities were told here today by members of the Oregon Pioneer Association at the opening of their two day convention. Several hundred pioneers were in attendance. The association is composed of persons who came to the original territory of Oregon, or were born here prior to 1850.

NAMED BY WILSON FOR RESERVE BOARD

Charles S. Hamlin.

Charles S. Hamlin of Boston, Mass., has just been named by President Wilson for a place on the federal reserve board. His name was submitted at the last minute for that of E. C. Simmons of St. Louis, president of the Simmons Hardware Company. It is said the reason for the change is that a few days after the Simmons Company sent letters broadcast over the country calling attention to the business depression.

Another Way of Putting It.
"Hitch your wagon to a star," wrote Emerson. It does no violence to the wisdom of Emerson to transpose the thought and urge the necessity of hitching the star to your wagon, your exceptional moods to your drudgery, and your finer enthusiasms to the grinding toil of the daily life. This is, indeed, a fine art, but its accomplishment will reconcile the opposite extremes which are so often in conflict.

COUNTY WILL SEND A BIG DELEGATION

SIXTY OR MORE CONSERVATIVE REPUBLICANS NAMED TO
MEETING.

CHANCE FOR ALLIANCE

Possibility of Cooperation With the Home Rule and Tax Payers' League Talked at Convention.

Sixty or more Rock county republicans of the more conservative stamp, who in former days would be called "stalwarts," will represent Rock county at the state republican convention which has been called for next Tuesday, June 23, at Madison.
The delegates were chosen at the annual meeting held at the court house yesterday afternoon and represent every precinct in the county.
When the delegates had been named to represent Rock county, the work of yesterday's gathering was completed. There were no resolutions to be offered and there were no long speeches elaborating upon the present deplorable conditions in the state government. High taxes were hardly mentioned and state extraneous was hardly hinted at.
There was no bitter haranguing; there was no beligerent speechmaking; there was no granting what the attitude of the meeting was and the business of naming delegates to the state gathering at which a platform and campaign program will be mapped out, was transacted without unnecessary preliminaries.

There were one or two significant things brought out in connection with the present state political situation, however, which will attract attention from the statement by Hon. J. M.
Whitehead that there was no reason to prevent a cooperation between the conservative republicans and the members of the Home Rule and Tax Payers' league. He believed that the two movements had much the same purpose but that the republicans felt the need of a stronger party organization which can stand behind their own candidates.
Another significant thing, emphasized at the meeting was the necessity of making a determined stand in the primary campaign. It was this phase of the situation which had prompted the necessity of a state convention at which candidates may be determined upon and a definite platform promulgated. The conservative republicans hope to nominate their men at the September election and that is the reason they seek to perfect a strong organization. There was an air of determination in evidence yesterday which was far from a "last ditch" attitude.

Following is the list of delegates from the various precincts:

ham.

CHIEF OF POLICE EQUIPS ROOM FOR PRIVATE OFFICE
James Gillespie has completed private lockers for members of the police department which were ordered by the council some time ago. The lockers, ten in number, are constructed of Georgia pine and are seven feet in height, eighteen inches deep and two feet wide. Each member of the police department will have a key to a locker.
Chief of Police Champion has fitted a room adjoining the police quarters for his private office, having removed the room extensively. An index system of recording criminals' descriptions sent by detective agencies and prisons is another improvement which Chief Champion is planning.

Asked to Spell in Contest.

Have you forgotten how to spell?
Below is given a list of words which were pronounced to the students in the county spelling contest, all of which were correctly spelled by ten of the contestants. They are not so easy as one might think, and if you think you are a good speller, have some one test you on the following: Anonymous, alimentary, acute, absolute, alkali, antidote, assembly, attorney, autumn, appearance, advertisement, acceptance, alum, athlete, awkward, armful, anecdote, arraign, alquiesce, amplex, achieved, aquatic,

ENDS THAT PENETRATING ODOR OF PERSPIRATION

Simply wet the skin with wonderful odorless casco essence. Four it on clothing that "smells to heaven" and seems past wearing. Take a few spoonfuls in the hand and massage burning, itching, smelly feet. Let this modern, scientific discovery make hot weather pleasant.
Ask your druggist for casco powder and have him dissolve it to make a full half pint of essence. He knows the formula.
Casco essence absolutely destroys all body odors. It penetrates, soothes and cools the skin. Ends excessive perspiration. Keep applying. Wash with soap and water after using.
Men's coats need casco essence. Apply freely at night, let the essence penetrate through and through. In the morning all odor is gone.

Get casco from your druggist and prove this for yourself. We refund the cost if it does not please. C. A. Smith & Co.,

FORTY YEARS AGO

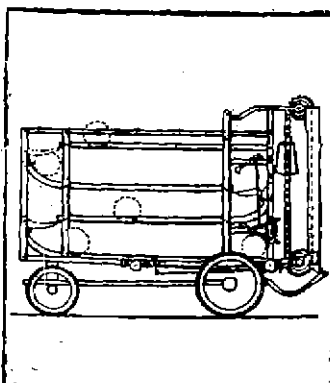

The property owners in this city are taking lively interest just now in the matter of steam fire engines, inasmuch as the common council has taken the initiatory steps for the purchase of another rotary steamer engine. A petition is being circulated, which will be presented to the council at their next meeting asking that body to reconsider its action and purchase some other engine as an experience with the rotary has not been of such a nature to warrant the purchase of the proposed engine.

The medical society completed their session and adjourned this morning after awarding their prizes and thanks to the managing committee and to Dr. Palmer for the excellent arrangements made for their entertainment. The medical dinner last night drew a vast assemblage and the program did credit to the banquet establishment. The speeches were good, some of them profound, some humorous and the delivery

NEW STYLE BARREL WAGON

Has Four Decks and is Equipped With Elevator on the Back.

The towering old barrel wagon which has formed a more or less picturesque feature of the streets of our cities for many years, without any great improvement or alteration in its general appearance, is about to be supplanted by another which represents a radical innovation. This vehicle has four decks, and a barrel to be loaded upon it is placed on a platform of an elevator located in the rear part, and by means of a weight

FOUR-DECKER BARREL WAGON.

The barrel is carried to the top and there dropped on a chute, which carries it to the top deck. The decks are inclined and open at one end so that the barrel soon finds a resting place alongside the barrel which has been previously loaded, all finding their way ultimately to the bottom, where they are unloaded as desired.

Compliment to Nature.
"Oh, do look at that dear little lamb!" said Frances, on seeing a young lamb for the first time in her life. "Isn't it pretty?" asked mamma. "Yes, and it is so natural, too. It squeaks just like a toy lamb, and has the same sort of wool on its back."

To Hang Pictures.
Pictures are hung preferably nowadays without long pieces of wire dropped from a molding, except in the case of extra large and heavy ones. They should be hung flat against the wall, and small pins or hooks that hold firmly and do not mar the wall may be had to effect the invisible hanging.

Little Benny's Note Book

A man was painting a fence around the corner from our house this afternoon, and I was going past and I stopped to watch him. Instead of being a man in white clothes and painting the fence brown, and after I had stood there watching him a while I said, "Is that your fence or are you just painting it?"

He just painting it, he said, do I look as if I owned a fence?
With I didn't say weather he did or not, just standing there watching him, and after a while I said, "You got that fence under those white wings, haven't you?"
A few, said the man.
And he kept a painting the fence brown and I kept a watching him, doing it, and after a while I said, "You were the white wings because you don't want to drop paint on your white wings, don't you?"
That's the idea, said the man.
You drop paint on the white wings, don't you, I said.
Just about that, said the man.
And he kept a painting the fence brown and I looked at his white wings, being so full of different kinds of paint you might think every time he didn't have anything else to do he painted his white wings, and I said, "How is it you got all different colored paint on your white wings when you're using brown paint?"
Do you want to smell something funny, said the man.
Yes, I said.
Then smell this brush, he said, and he held it out and I went over and smelled it, and I didn't smell anything very funny, and the man said, "Smell closer. Which I did, putting my face right up, and awl of a sudden I saw the man do but push the brush right against my nose, being back full of paint and awl, saying, 'That's for asking questions.'"

"All Aboard" for Standard

Nothing like a good satisfying smoke to keep your nerves steady and your head clear. Street car men are about the busiest lot of fellows on earth. Starting—stopping—watching traffic—taking care of passengers—something's going on every minute.

It would be a tough job for them if they didn't have their STANDARD to smoke at the end of the run. It's "All Aboard for the Contentment Avenue Line" when they use this rich, satisfying tobacco.

STANDARD Long Cut Tobacco is made from pure Kentucky tobacco, aged from three to five years so as to bring out its full, ripe flavor and rich fragrance. It was made right fifty years ago—and it's been made right ever since.

Most sturdy, live men won't use any other brand, once they've tried STANDARD—because no other brand has the snap and taste of STANDARD. It gives you big, solid satisfaction such as you get out of a good square meal.

"Mind your step"—get aboard STANDARD for a week's trial of rich, fragrant smoking and you'll never stop.

THAT OLD PENDULUM.

The Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin sounds a word of warning to the optimistic to watch out for the pendulum. In an article headed "Business Men on the Defensive," the New York Journal of Commerce reviews the conditions under which business had its inception, and after remarking that "this period of regulation and restriction of business, has been running its course for a decade, and running it to its logical conclusion, as such progressive and prudent currents always do," proceeds as follows:

"Business, whose methods have been no worse than those of politics, to say the least, and whose methods are the prevalent spirit under which people act in civilized communities in both private and public affairs, came under condemnation and prosecution until there is a disposition to treat these methods as criminal. But, in fact, business men have shared the change of sentiment that has been going on and are ready to admit the errors of the past, while protesting against their exaggeration and against being held responsible for their consequences. Business men are as quick as politicians to correct them. They are as ready to acknowledge the force of prevailing opinion and the importance of having it on their side. They know that their interests and those of the mass of people, and of the public as represented in government, are bound up together and must flourish or languish together. Their standard of action is not lower and their motives are not more narrowly selfish than those of public men intrusted by the people with framing and administering the laws. Under the assaults which have been directed against business organizations and their methods, they have been silenced if not submissive, but they seem now to be rising to assert themselves against the charge of being criminal."

"People not blinded by prejudice are likely to look upon this as a very fair statement of the situation and to realize that the pendulum which has swung too far must under the law of gravity swing back. In its effort to regain equilibrium it is not unlikely to sweep off the stage of public life some of the politicians who have the hardihood to stand in its way. The possibility that this is about to occur will impart zest to the approaching election. Wise politicians will do well to look out for the inevitable swing of the pendulum."

Tom Morris is always ready with an answer to any question that may be asked of him. He does not lack for a turn of words if need be, as easily as a small boy denies stealing his mother's jam. The Milwaukee Sentinel says that when asked the awkward question how he would have voted on the Wilson tariff bill, Mr. Thomas Morris answered with due docility, "I would have done just what Senator La Follette did."

Thomas did not falter. He stood the supreme test of loyalty to his huge lord. He threw to the winds his protectionist convictions, his party ties, the interest of his state in protection, rather than fail to sneeze when Senator La Follette took snuff. Master, go on, and I will follow thee. To the last snuff with love and loyalty.

Mr. Morris has stood the supreme test, and if Bob fails to recognize and reward it—well, it will be just like Bob.

But what about Messrs. Hutton and Dahl? There is already some dispute as to Bob's preferences between the twain. It is even bruited abroad that, after all, not Hutton, but Dahl, is the certified, blown in the bottle. Bob candidate for governor.

If Hutton was the lord's appointed, why did Dahl suddenly but in and before the whole business? Did some unholo whisper to the effect that that republican state convention might endorse Hutton cause the word to be passed that made two putative La Follette candidates grow where only one grew before?

At all events, we again have the old story of a brace of alleged La Follette candidates for governor. We dare say each of them is perfectly confident that he has Bob's benediction, and the other chap is a pretender.

Captain William Mitchell Lewis of Racine will appreciate the situation. But we are wondering if both, or either of these gentlemen could, or would, stand the acid test of personal loyalty so nobly, not to say submissively, passed by Faithful Tom Morris. Will somebody capable of compelling a categorical answer put the question to Messrs. Hutton and Dahl? The republicans of the state are entitled to know. Would either or both of them, have botched the republican party, and "done just what Senator La Follette did" about the Wilson tariff?

REAL PROMISES.

Forgetting all politics for the time being it is interesting to note that winter wheat is coming down the home stretch in fine form. The harvest is now becoming general. A few weeks ago the harvest was the only danger to be feared. A few weeks ago the harvest was the only danger to be feared. A few weeks ago the harvest was the only danger to be feared.

Some threshing returns are being received from the southwest, and these confirm the anticipations of heavy yields per acre. As Kansas and Oklahoma suffered so severely in the loss of corn and other crops last season, those states will hardly hold back their wheat this season. The idle ears of the southwest can soon expect employment in moving wheat to market.

People of the northwest are optimistic over the crop outlook. They usually are, but this season they seem to have well grounded reasons. Not only the spring wheat, but other crops in the northwest are promising better than usual. Even the western half of the Dakotas, where water is scarce, claims plenty of moisture. Spring wheat has yet to face the possibility of drought in July and early August, but winds and rust. But that is in the realm of prophecy; the present prospects are largely in its favor.

It is early yet to count much on corn. But the general outlook for all cereals and grasses is a cheerful one. It is not to be expected that anyone will equal the outlook for wheat, but the general average is good. What more can be asked?

As expected the A-B-C peace conference at Niagara Falls is going to amount to nothing definite in the way of settling the Mexican troubles. The trouble is that the A-B-C gentlemen could not make X equal Y or even solve the equation of settling just what Bryan and Wilson stood for.

So Rock county will have a delegation at the stalwart convention to be held in Madison next week? What will be accomplished there is yet unknown, but it is safe to say Philip will have a chance to make a speech anyway.

Wilson still insists that congress stay in school until it learns all the lessons he assigned to it. He does not mean to have his term broken up by such a thing as a vacation period. Continual education is what the country needs in his academic mind and it is certainly receiving a double dose.

Now comes the west with a cry for labor and cars to move its crops. He is a chance for the democrats to show what prosperity they have brought to the country by not legislating against growing crops.

Premature Fourth celebrations are always the ones where the accidents occur. In some cities they are prohibited by the police, but the fire-

TENNIS TOURNAMENT WILL SOON BE HELD

Physical Director Frank Yordy Will Complete List of Entrants This Week.

Plans are being made by Physical Director Frank Yordy of the Y. M. C. A. for the holding of a tennis tournament between the members of the recently organized club of business men. The tournament, as it is planned, will be a preliminary one to the big meet which is planned for later in the season. It is expected that by holding the meet now it will be easier for the contestants to be given in the final which plays its games at the Y. M. C. A. tennis court at the corner of Marion and West Milwaukee streets. Mr. Yordy stated that he expected twenty men to be entered when the first games are started. For the past week he has been securing the signatures of those who will enter and has already signed up a sufficient number to make it a success in every way.

To Brighten Colors.

Pink, green and colored linens in general can have their hues preserved when being laundered by the addition of a little fruit coloring added to the rinsing water. The colors will then be as fresh and bright as when new.

Old College Days.
In an article in the Dial something is said of the earlier days of American scholarship and the pursuit of learning under difficulties. In Harvard's first building, it is stated, not even the most rudimentary of table equipment was supplied. "Each student carried his own knife and fork when he went to dinner, and after he had finished he wiped them on the tablecloth."

I would say to all: Use your gentlest voice at home. Watch it by day as a pearl of great price, for it will be worth more to you in days to come than the best pearl hid in the sea. A kind voice is joy, like a lark's song, to a hearth at home. It is a light that sings as well as shines. Train it to sweet tones now, and it will keep in tune through life.—Ellis Burritt.

Queer Toothache Cure.
As a cure for toothache, Mr. E. A. Ravine told the Dorset (Eng.) Antiquarian Field club at Dorchester recently, a Dorset farmer two or three years ago recommended a friend to put his arm round a young oak tree, mark the place where his fingers met, and there make a slit in the bark. Then with his right hand he was to pull some hair from behind his right ear and put it in the slit in the bark.

YES, THE BABY IS SO OBEIDENT.

M'MAHON OUTPOINTS KELLY IN CONTEST

BIG PITTSBURGH HEAVY CLEVER BOXER IN TEN SLOW ROUNDS.

SCOTTY DEFEATS COX

Jamesville Boy Outclassed By Speedy Milwaukee Chap.—Nichols Fights Ward To a Draw.

John McMahon, the Pittsburgh heavy, who has made Jamesville his headquarters for some months past, outpointed Jack Kelly, lorded as the Montana white hope, in ten slow rounds before a good sized audience at the Myers Theatre last evening. In the contests staged by the Bowler City Athletic Club.

Young Scotty of Milwaukee gave Young Cox of Jamesville a specific interpretation of the boxing game as followed in a scientific manner, and had the latter gentleman ready to quit in the second of the six rounds.

Young Nichols, a clever local chap, stepped into the ring with Bobby Ward, the Beloit bearcat, and boxed him six rounds to a fairly even draw, the third man in the ring being Rayan, a Milwaukee referee.

Taking it all in all it was a slow program. McMahon evidently forgot he was not a exhibition sparring match, for his blows lacked steam, as though he were really afraid he would hurt Kelly. Mac has been two years out of the ring, enforced retirement owing to injured hands, may have had something to do with the slowness of the bout, as he expressed a fear he might break them again. As it was he did unjoint a thumb on Kelly's hand.

Kelly tried to carry the fight, but lacked science enough to reach his opponent. He is noted for a knock-out, and he kept waiting for a chance to place one of his famous haymakers, but Mac did not give him much chance, and so the bout dragged along ten rounds.

It proved a cumbersome sparring match between two heavies, neither showing a scientific method of boxing, was very damaging. Only in spots did McMahon unburke blows that hurt Kelly, and after each rally failed to follow his advantage, while Kelly could not lay a glove on McMahon effectively through the Pittsburgh man's cleverness. For a heavyweight McMahon is unusually fast and clever.

In his ducking under blows, side stepping, clinching and of light places, covering after leading back, and countering, were that of a welterweight in speed.

McMahon used his shoulders a plenty in stopping the slow jabs of Kelly with his elbows, and in his dangerous attempts of the Montana man to land. The Pittsburgher had the appearance of having plenty in reserve which would have ended the fight in the late rounds if it had been put to use. The reason for this was declared by McMahon to be that his hands were soft, but the fans would rather have seen them put to a better advantage than merely tapping the giant from Montana.

Kelly as a fighter was a disappointment, for he had neither defense or offense that could be rated as good, and the impression generally formed by local fans was that Kelly had better follow the plow instead of the ring for a livelihood. While McMahon boxed with an open guard, both hands being down to his hips half the time, the Montana wonder could not reach his face or land a solid blow through McMahon's cleverness in footwork. In the early rounds McMahon made Kelly look foolish, for Kelly's attempts to land would land their target by a foot, while McMahon tapped and buffeted and mostly kidded him in return. The only punch in Kelly's mitt was a straight left jab that often landed as the men were coming out of clinches, but it had no steam behind it.

McMahon at times whipped over right and left that banged Kelly hard and then went straight right to the ribs that brought a look of pain on Kelly's physiognomy. The rally would be cut short and the giants would again start their light jabbing and playful punching that finally got on the crowd's nerves. The Ringside audience found plenty of amusement in the remarks addressed by McMahon to Kelly while the fighting was in order.

The first round Kelly started to rush the Pittsburgh man, but when he attempted to land McMahon would be four feet away from him, laughing. In the opener McMahon put across solid jabs that showed he did not want to be hit. The second round was even, for no blows were struck. McMahon making Kelly look foolish and amusing the crowd by making fun of him. In the third round McMahon covered in a shell, but McMahon hammered home short jabs that went home, and Mr. Kelly thereafter more careful in crawling into his shell. The hardest blow of the bout was in the sixth, when McMahon hooked over the left to the nose that brought a stream of blood from Kelly's already bleeding nose. Kelly fell into a clinch. In the eighth McMahon brought a laugh from the crowd when he held Kelly off with his glove, poised his chin up and slammed over a left and side, stepped out of harm's way before the Montana wonder woke up.

Kelly won an even break in the tenth, for he was aggressive, and landed a few punches while McMahon,

Battling Cox, Jamesville, received a beating at the hands of Young Scotty, Milwaukee, and the final going came as a welcome relief to Cox, who did not appear right, for although Scotty proved he could take Cox's measure the best day the Jamesville battler ever stepped into the ring. Cox has the ability to put up a far better fight than he showed last night. Scotty put up the most vicious battle that has been seen in the local arena for some time, for he kept after Cox, hit hard punches coming and going. The Milwaukee boxer slammed home jolts, jabs, uppercuts and every kind of a punch, and in four of the rounds floored Cox. Scotty was made for jolting, Cox declaring Scotty was hitting unfairly in the clinches, but Referee Geo. Ryan ruled that the blows struck were fair, as Scotty had both hands free when he delivered them.

In the first round Scotty rushed Cox to the ropes with a whirlwind of blows that landed flush on Cox's chin and floored him for the count of six. Scotty attempted to clinch, grabbing Scotty around the waist. In this position Scotty rained blows on Cox that were certain defeat. Scoldon had a boxer been seen here who could land such wallops? Cox, Scotty punched Cox with. If the Milwaukee kid would miss a swing he would bring it back on Cox's jaw and in the clinches pounded the Jamesville boy unmercifully on the body. Cox was not able even to clinch successfully, instead of trying to smother Scotty's arms, tried to tackle him.

In the second Cox was put to canvas and claimed a foul. His condition was such he could not continue the fight, and Referee Ryan allowed a minute's rest but refused to allow the claim. Scotty showed his strength in the fourth, when he wrestled Cox to the floor and also put him through the ropes. Cox managed to land a few lefts but never troubled Scotty, who went after Cox, dancing around the ring like a bull, and generally got him. The sixth round was more even, but putting up a game fight to win with a single punch, although handicapped by a bleeding nose and the previous punishment.

Young Nichols, who replaced Luther McCarthy in two days' notice, earned a good draw against Bobby Ward, the Beloit bearcat. The local boxer has improved a hundred per cent since his debut in the ring, and convinced the fans he had a lot of ability in him. Ward showed more skill in covering and hitting, but Nichols landed as often and harder than the Beloit fighter. Had Nichols followed Ward more and followed up of ability he would have licked the Beloit boxer. Ward won the fifth and sixth rounds by a strong finish, while Nichols won the early sessions. This bout was a fair one.

Between Rounds. The bout between Cox and Scotty was cut to six because the Jamesville boxer refused to go on for eight, claiming injury as an alibi. Rather than let the fight go on, the promoters had Cox examined by physicians, who declared him fit to enter the ring.

In the fifth round McMahon was kidding Kelly and after clinching with him, he said: "Want me to hit you on the jaw?" Before Kelly had a chance to reply the punch came true to the mark.

Cox was a defeated boxer before he entered the ring, appearing to have lost his nerve. The fans question Ryan's right to allow Coxie a minute's rest after refusing to allow the foul claim. The only real foul struck was in the fourth, when Scotty struck a light blow on the shoulder, while Cox was on his hands and knees.

Scotty was like a triple extract of greased lightning and a power triphammer when in action. Tough looking and as strong as a bull, he fought a battle that few could stand up under.

Young Nichols has the making of a fighter with coaching from a good source. Bobby Ward has nothing on him. Luther McCarthy decided he would postpone his debut and Nichols was substituted.

Connie Mack has a word of cheer for the lowly Cleveland Naps. "The Naps are sure to climb," says Connie. "They can't stay in last place all season and I'm convinced of that. I've been too busy with my own bunch to give the Naps very much consideration, but I know that they are not a crew to remain throughout the year in the bottom booth. The loss of Chapman is what has so sadly crippled them. I see they have lost some sixteen games or more by one run. I am sure that if Chapman had been in the game the Naps would have taken at least fourteen of those games. I believe the help of that young man would have made that much difference. Also I note that the Naps are sorrying over Lajoie's failure to slam the ball in his usual manner. That is a poor source of worry, to my mind. That old boy will be pounding the ball when he is twice his present age." All of which should be balm to the hurt minds of Cleveland fans.

It is rumored about organized ball circles that Tom Seaton showed poor judgment in hoping to the Feds if he wanted a softer job. There were many reasons why Seaton was glad to leave the Phillies, but perhaps if he had been able to foresee the clip he would be obliged to do with the Feds.

CHAMPS CONDITION TO DECIDE BATTLE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Paris, June 18.—One thing that appears to be as certain and inevitable as taxes and death, is that the Jack Johnson-Owen Moran scrap in Paris one week from Saturday will be a real fight. There was talk a frame-up—certainly. There must always be just before a fight of this calibre. But the only frame-up, if any, will be double crossing that each fighter will try to put over on the other one.

Just put it down that Jack Johnson cares about as much for that championship title as he does for both his eyes and his two ears. His pride in the title is exactly like the pride of the average down south dandy of his glaring lodge regalia on parade. Jack Johnson, with a super-abundance of confidence and conceit, will tote into that fight on June 27, everything he has in the way of defence and punch. Johnson knows the odds and howls of delight that would arise from some 80,000,000 American throats should Moran slip over a sleep-producer.

Johnson also knows and realizes that if he goes in and fights like the Big Black that humbled Jeffries at Reno, and wins, he will have it said of him in spite of his disgusting morality, or rather lack of it, that he is a grand fighter. For that much of his make-up, fight lovers will hold admiration. Once more take the tip that Jack Johnson will fight with all that's in him.

Just how much is left in Johnson after a year of Paris life and Paris debauches, remains for Owen Moran to discover. Moran is far above the average fighter in intelligence and intellect. Better, he is a pretty good two-fisted fighting man. But Moran's intelligence and superior intellect has made him map out a course and easy it through to the best of his ability.

Moran has no idea that he will have it easy for a minute. He believes on the other hand, and many others hold the same theory, that Jack Johnson will furnish Moran with a lot of trouble in the first half of the battle.

Moran wants only to last that long. After that, he says, he expects Johnson's condition to begin to show and to furnish the chance for him to bring the crown back to America on and howls of delight that would arise from some 80,000,000 American throats should Moran slip over a sleep-producer.

Just put it down that Jack Johnson cares about as much for that championship title as he does for both his eyes and his two ears. M'MAHON WILL BOX PLATTEVILLE MINER Jamesville Heavyweight Signs to Meet Stanley Klosky Before Platteville Club in July.

Jack McMahon this morning signed to meet Stanley Klosky, the Cuba City heavyweight for ten rounds at Platteville early in July. A challenge was given between rounds at the bout last night and this morning Klosky's manager and McMahon agreed on the terms and conditions of the match.

McMahon declared that after a month's training he will be able to show more stuff and be fit for a grueling match. Klosky has achieved considerable reputation as a heavyweight in the eastern part of the state, having knocked out every opponent he has met with the exception of Arthur Nelson of Sparta. This match is scheduled for the heavyweight championship of the state.

OBSERVE CLASS DAY AT MILTON COLLEGE

Members of Graduating Class Present Rolling Back Allegory As Feature of Program.

Milton, Wis., June 18.—The seniors yesterday afternoon presented Class Day exercises of a high caliber to a crowded house in the college auditorium. Mr. L. Langworthy showed the technique in his corned solo and was enthusiastically accompanied on the piano by Miss Margaret Ingham. After this number the seniors came on stage and sang "The Pursuit of Happiness" which was of an unusually high standard. The motif was the progress of the class from its freshman days, through the various stages in the pursuit of knowledge and high school graduation, to the present. Mr. Langworthy acted with credit and was in his own opinion the "Golden" of the day. Miss Ingham acted as an excellent accompanist. The program of musical numbers was of high quality. The seniors then presented a rolling back allegory, which was a very clever and original piece of work. The allegory was a story of a man who had been a failure in life, but who had been helped by his friends to overcome his difficulties. The allegory was a very clever and original piece of work. A HOLD-FAST SCREW

Supplied With Slot Along Length Which Prevents Working Loose.

Carpenters and woodworkers will be interested in a screw of new design which has been recently patented for the purpose of preventing the screw from working loose after it has been once driven into place. In the manufacture of much modern grade furniture screws are made use of, although they are tapered in the first class production. In furniture, the screws are bound to work loose after the piece has been in use a little while, and if not given attention, it is not long before the furniture will fall apart. Indeed, in such a place, constant attention is required to keep them together and in the service for which they were designed. The new screw has a slot along its length with ridges on the sides that offer resistance to the passage of the screw as it enters, but a series of little holes or perforations stand in the way of its withdrawal.

A SCREW THAT STAYS PUT.

Evansville News AMASA COVELL DIES WEDNESDAY EVENING

Well Known Evansville Stock Buyer Expires Following an Illness of Three Weeks' Duration.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Evansville, Wis., June 18.—Amasa Covell, well known stock buyer and farmer, for thirty-five years a resident of Evansville and vicinity, passed away at six-thirty Wednesday evening at his home in this city.
Death followed a serious illness of three weeks' duration but his health had been poor for the past twenty years.

Mr. Covell was born in Sylvester, Green county, January 4, 1854. His parents were pioneer residents of Green county. Mr. Covell was married to Miss Amanda Dixon on November 7, 1875 and soon afterward came to the vicinity of Evansville to reside. He lived on farms east and west of this city, and later moved to town. He was for several years a partner of Oscar Collins of Magnolia in the stock buying business.

Besides his wife Mr. Covell is survived by one daughter, Mrs.
Nellie Hall of Janesville, and another daughter died in infancy.

He also leaves one sister, Mrs.
Nellie Hull of the town of Union, and three brothers, Orrin of Larabie, La. Norris of Oklahoma, and William of Waterloo, Ia.

Funeral services will be held from the home at two-thirty o'clock Saturday afternoon with the Rev. D. Q.
Grubbs officiating.

MISS BERNICE GRAY WEDS J. F. WADDELL

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Gray Becomes Bride of High School Principal.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Evansville, Wis., June 18.—A very pretty wedding was solemnized last night at 8:00 o'clock at the Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Gray home, when their daughter, Miss Bernice, was united in marriage to Principal J. F. Waddell, of this place. Rev. N. G. Oliver of the Baptist church officiated, using the double ring service.

As Miss Marion Calkins played Mendelssohn's wedding march the bride walked in on the arm of her father who gave her away. Elizabeth Baldwin and Kathleen Grubbs were ring bearers.

The couple were attended by Miss Kathleen Calkins, cousin, and Paul Gray, brother, of the bride.

The house was very prettily decorated, the color scheme being pink and white, roses carrying out the delightful effect. The bride wore a gown of white crepe de meteor and a lace veil.

Paul Chase sang two solos, "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms," and "Beauty's Eyes."

After the ceremony and congratulations a delicious luncheon was served by Misses Jane Crow, Mae Heron and Amy Perry to the forty guests present.

The bride is a popular young lady here, being prominent in church work and social circles. She was graduated from the Evansville high school and later attended the Denison University, Granville, Ohio. She was librarian here previous to the past year, which she has spent at Pomona, California.

The groom is our well liked high school principal.

The couple left last night for Janesville, whence Rice Lake, where they will spend a few weeks.

The out of town guests were Miss Fannie Hall, Janesville; Miss Laura Standish of Minneapolis, J. Waddell of Sextonville, I. Shue, Beloit; E. O.
Evans of Waukesha; Miss Ada Bal-win of La Crosse; Mrs. Fred Houghton of Duluth, and Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Hollister of Henderson, Minnesota.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

THE ANGLE OF VISION.

MY LITTLE niece went to look at the thermometer the other day and reported a surprisingly high temperature. Her big brother volunteered to see if she had made a mistake, and at once assured us that she was six degrees out of the way. At this she was highly indignant, so we all repaired to the veranda, having constituted ourselves a jury to decide which was right.

And, as my mother used to say, "Both were wrong, and both were right. And both were very impolite."

For my little niece had been looking up at the thermometer from her feet, and, big brother had been looking down at the thermometer from his five feet eight; and the truth was somewhere between the two.

What a big difference the angle of vision does make in the way in which we see many things besides the thermometer!

Go into a shop and ask for a 36 waist. The shop girl, after much rummaging, produced a 34. "This is the nearest we have," she says. "But," with a persuasive smile, "they run in sizes."

Go into another shop and try again. Here a 38 is the nearest to your size. "But they run small," the shop girl is sure to add.

Perhaps they do run small in one shop and large in another, you suggest.

Perhaps they do. But inasmuch as I have been told by two clerks that the same make of shoes run large and small, I have my suspicions that the angle of vision has something to do with the variance.

The astonishing way in which one's definitions of words varies according to the point of view is another striking example of it. The angle of vision can do.

For instance, take the term young, middle-aged and old. For instance, take the term young, middle-aged and old.

The dear old lady who used to do our millinery often said, "If a woman has a nice looking hat on she always looks well dressed, even if the rest of her clothes are rather shabby."

A woman cannot look all dressed without good looking shoes, a friend of mine, whose business you may guess, said to me the other day. "That's the first thing anyone looks at."

"Yes, I'm glad I'm in the newspaper business," an enthusiastic young newspaper man told me, "because after all it's the biggest and most important business in the world today."

Each spoke with all sincerity, and each was entirely unconscious of being influenced by his angle of vision.

And now, that you may laugh at me as I deserve, I'm going to make a confession. As I wrote that last example, the thought came over me, "Perhaps that isn't a fair example of this propensity because he was really right."

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am twenty-one years old; have dark brown eyes, heavy eyelashes, and a medium complexion. I have a few freckles on my cheeks and an considered good looking.

I have never gone with a boy since the age of seventeen.

I have many admirers, but I don't like boys, so I won't go with any of them.

We are wealthy; have a large machine, which I have myself most of the time. I dress very plainly and neatly and am friendly with everyone, trying not to have any enemies. I do not act as many girls do or would what we have.

I would rather go with my mother and father and girl chum than any other in the world. Do you think I am wrong? Do you think I should act in this manner toward the boys?

BRIGHT ANSWER.

I am glad you are not "buffed up" with pride because your parents have means. I am glad, too, dear little girl, that you are not "boy crazy," so many girls are. However, it does not hurt to have a few friends who want only to be friendly boys who want only to be friendly.

To be sure, but respectable men with sense enough to be good friends with a girl.

The young man you speak of must be fond of you, or he would not be so persistent. Why not talk him over with your parents? Your father will probably be able to tell you if he is in company for you.

Of course you love your father and mother, also your girl chum, but don't sell in your love for them, my dear. Appreciate the good in others—even in men.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a girl sixteen years old. As I have no home, would I be too young to be a trained nurse?

(2) I am a poor girl. Will it take very much money to be a nurse?

(3) Please give me an address to where I could go.

(4) I want to love someone, but can't find anyone that wants to be loved. Do you think that I'm a bad girl?

(5) You could start training now; the course requires three years or more.

(6) It depends upon where you study.

(7) Any first class hospital. Do not put any faith in anybody who says he will make you a first class trained nurse in six months or even a year.

(8) Of course you want to love someone, my dear! We all do. Loving someone is almost better than being loved. Why not just love all humanity, as Jesus did?

Make yourself so sweet and lovable that love will just naturally come your way. You can love a girl or a woman as well as a boy or a man, and you can find a lot of happiness in loving just a dog or a cat or a bird. There are many who want to be loved and who need to be loved. Would they not be the ones you think you want to love?

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Please give me remedy for moths and ants.

One of the best remedies for ants is to soak a sponge in sugar water, then lay it where ants infest. As soon as sponge is covered with ants drop it in boiling water. Repeat until ants are all dead. Also, keep sweets out of reach of ants. Stand icebox legs in glass tumblers and set sugar, molasses, etc., on glass dishes if possible.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have a pink chiffon over-silk dress trimmed with glass spangles and very simply made. If worn with guimpe would it be suitable for morning church service? I wore it first as bridesmaid.

It is more suitable for an evening dress, or with a guimpe, for afternoon wear.

Every Day Talks To Every Day People

"I have for the last five years put one dollar each week in the bank. Before that I allowed myself that amount to drink—to treat my fellow workmen—to take a glass. One dollar a week will not put the brewer out of commission, so I did not aim to be a heavy drinker."

This conversation heard the other evening was too good a lead to not follow up. Here is the true little story.

A man, right in your home town, a fellow workman that the rest of you men know and think well of, held a position in one of our local factories. His salary was fifteen a week.

One day he was paid. He did not take a princely salary, but one that many men would draw. One that if wisely expended, will educate a family, pay for a home. Yet with prices advancing the way they now are!

This man has two children and a wife such as God intended a man's wife to be. She was a helpmate—she did her share. She was a partner—she did her share. She was a good keeper of his heart and of his home.

When they first started on life's sea together the young man on his very first pay-day kept one dollar for drink. Just a harmless glass, he thought. He was of the firm opinion that whatever he did was right, simply because he did it. Their first anniversary was made doubly memorable by the birth of a little son.

Three years after a brother came to join him. He kept his happy Mother busy as a bee tending the home and babies. Everything was shining. A king might envy the welcome given the man whose love, determination and earnings made this modest home possible.

"Every bridge has its rotten plank," has it? The dollar that was kept for "just a harmless little drink," off-times grew into two. Two dollars is not a stupendous sum, but when you buckle down to hard, cold facts, two dollars coming into the house kept out of a plain, common home every seven days, means more than you can well imagine, unless you have tried to live inside an income that at times seems pitifully inadequate.

From pay-days the little envelope that meant so much to the home was very slim. The man's health and temper was none too good. The oldest boy fell ill.

Then the woman took her pride in the throat. (Yes, you would, too, had it been your baby.) She went to the manager of the factory where her husband worked. She told him their circumstances, how her husband was spending his hard earned salary, and what it meant to her; to their children.

The manager was married. He had four children. As the woman talked one of them came into the room to say good-night to his father.

"My boy is about his age," she said. And then, "my boy is not getting the chance to be raised in the right sort of home—ah, do something about it, for the sake of the boy who may be your boy's playmate."

Next morning the man in question was called to the inside office and was told some plain facts and kindly advised to back up and start up all over again. It was his friendliness that was with his own.

The man's very foundation from under his one time happy home. He was given his choice—to brace up and do right by his family and himself, or to seek a position elsewhere. He was given the day off with pay, to go home and think it over.

That's all! Unless, you might be interested to know that they are out of debt, with the exception of a mortgage on their own house. That, every week a dollar goes into the bank for the children's school fund. If you are of a mathematical turn of mind you can figure up how much good that one dollar saves weekly, with the two little boys when they are going through school.

That's all! Unless, you decide that what this man has done, another may also do. Well?

Women Worth While

MRS. T. H. CARAWAY.

(By Selene Armstrong Harmon.)

"MAMA," said Paul, the elder of the two little sons of Representative and Mrs. T. H. Caraway, after hearing President Wilson read a message to congress, "the president forgot to mention the most important thing of all."

"What was that?" asked his mother.

"Why, he didn't give the number of his house," answered Paul solemnly. Then, seeing the mystified look on his parents' faces, he added:

"Didn't you tell me we were going to the capitol to hear the president give his address?"

"This was probably a very natural mistake for my little son, or for any child to make," argues Mrs. Caraway in recounting the story. "The fact remains, however, that the congressman's child frequently lives in a state of mental confusion."

"We have heard a great deal about what a poor congressman's wife endures when she comes from a small town, where everybody was either a relative or an intimate friend, and enters upon the loneliness and disillusionment of her first Washington season. Also barrowing tales are told about the petty economies she must practice in order to rear a family on her husband's salary. If one accepted these stories literally one would finally come to believe that any woman who stands for her husband's making a race for congress is performing a patriotic service to the country. But nothing is ever said about the congressman's child. Now of the two he has my sympathy every time."

When he comes to Washington he leaves the small boys and girls with whom he has romped since babyhood.

LESSONS IN DOMESTIC SCIENCE

In rural communities co-operative slaughter houses and storage houses are often useful not only in reducing the cost of meat, but in making fresh meat available in summer. If the size of her family or her storage facilities warrant, the housekeeper may find it advantageous to buy the whole carcass of a small animal, such as a pig or a lamb, or a large section of beef, thus securing better prices.

It is in the actual preparation of the meat that the housewife accomplishes her greatest saving. If nothing better can be done with the bones and trimmings, she can always use them to good advantage in the soup kettle, and she may employ the fat for cooking, in place of the more expensive butter and lard. A double boiler is the best utensil to use in trying out small portions of fat. There is no danger of burning the fat and the odor is much less noticeable than if it is heated in a dish set directly over the fire. A good method to follow is to pour boiling water over the fat, to boil thoroughly, and then to set it away to cool. The cold fat may be removed in a solid cake and any impurities clinging to it may be scraped off, as they will be found at the bottom of the layer. By repeating this process two or three times a cake of clean, white fat may be obtained. A slight burned taste or similar objectionable flavors often can be removed from fat by means of potatoes. After melting the fat, put into it thick slices of raw potato; heat gradually. When the fat ceases to bubble and the potatoes are brown, strain through a cloth placed in a wire strainer. When rendering the drippings of fat meat, add a small onion (do not cut it), a few leaves of summer savory and thyme, a teaspoonful of salt, and a little pepper. This is enough for a pint of fat. Keep the drippings covered and in a cool place.

By consulting Farmers' Bulletins 391 and 526, which may be obtained by writing to the United States department of agriculture, Washington, D. C., the housewife will learn many new methods of using "leftover" meats and smaller amounts of meat than are necessary when the meat alone is served. Drippings and meat pies are useful in extending the flavor of meat, and borders of rice, hominy, or mashed potatoes are examples of the same principle. By serving some preparation of flour, rice, hominy, or other food rich in starch, a dish in which the meat flavor is extended through a large amount of material is secured. A good dish for eking out a small quantity of meat is a ragout of mutton made with farina balls, according to the following recipe: The measurements given in all the recipes call for a level spoonful or a level cupful, as the case may be.)

Ragout of Mutton.—One and a half pounds neck of mutton cut into small pieces, one tablespoonful butter, one tablespoonful flour, one onion, one carrot, one-half can peas, two cups hot water, one teaspoonful salt, one-quarter teaspoonful pepper, one bay leaf, sprig parsley, one clove.

Farina Balls.—One-quarter cup farina, one cup milk, one-quarter teaspoonful salt, one-eighth teaspoonful pepper, onion juice, yolk of one egg.

The Lapse of Enoch Wentworth

The Englishman glanced at her curiously. She began to chat about the play and other things. She was trying to forget whatever had startled her. She said "Good-by" at the door of her home. Oswald realized that she was eager to have him go. As he drove away he tried to recall anything which could have happened. A woman of her poise would not be disturbed by a trifle.

Dorcas shut the street door and ran upstairs to her brother's study, where the phone stood. She searched distractedly through the directory for the address of a livery from which occasionally she called a cab. The name had escaped her. She stood for a moment trying in vain to recall it, then she rang the bell. Her wait seemed endless before the old servant appeared.

"What Frightened You, Miss Wentworth?"

"Jason," she cried impatiently, "who is Mr. Wentworth's livery man?"

"Costello, missy,"

"Stay here a minute," she said as she paused for central's answer. Then she stooped to the phone.

"Send a cab, please, to 26 Waverly place, immediately."

She turned again to the old servant.

"Jason," she asked, "you have waited on Mr. Merry when Enoch brought him here—sick—haven't you?"

"Deed I has, missy. Many's de time Marse Enoch on 'is done all sorts ob waitin' on him, when he's done been sick, perfectly missible, missy. Yo'll don't know how missible."

"Can you help tonight? I may bring Mr. Merry back with me—miserable."

"Deed I can," cried the old man, with eager sympathy. "Yo' des teeb him to me, Lawdy! I tink ez much ob Marse Andrew mos' as I do ob yo'all. He's been mighty good to me."

"Thank you," said Dorcas gratefully.

"I am not sure whether he will come, but in case he does, be ready for him. He may want a hot bath and supper. Have a cheerful fire; it is bitterly cold outdoors."

She turned and ran downstairs when she heard the rattle of wheels on the street below.

"Don't yo' want me to go wid yo' missy?" suggested Jason. "Hit's powerful late fo' a lady to be goin' roun' New York alone."

"No; I would rather have you here waiting for our return."

"Tenth and Broadway," she directed, as the cabman shut the door. He pulled up at her signal opposite the bakery. The place was closed, the bread line had dispersed, and the quiet gray of early morning had begun to creep over the street. Occasionally a cab dashed past or a trolley went on its clamorous way, but there were few stragglers to be seen. Here and there a man on foot walked briskly, as if a shelter waited him somewhere. On the sidewalk stood a tall policeman. Dorcas studied his face for a moment, then she beckoned him. He came instantly to the cab window.

"Is this your best every night?"

"Every night this week," said the man in blue.

"The men in the bread line have dispersed. Do you know where they go?"

"Where they go, lady?" The policeman smiled. "I couldn't tell you no more where they go than if they were rabbits scurrying to their holes."

Dorcas shivered. "Are they absolutely homeless—on such a night as this?"

"A good share of them are." The man spoke with little interest. The misery in the streets of New York was an old story to him.

"Do the same men come to the blue night after night?"

"A man has to be mighty hungry when he stands an hour or two waiting for a hunk of bread. If his luck turns he drops out. Still, I've seen the same faces there every night for a month. Are you a settlement lady?" he asked respectfully.

"No." The girl's face flushed. "I thought tonight when we were passing that I saw some one in the bread line I knew, somebody we can't find."

"That happens many a time."

"Do you think," Dorcas asked eagerly, "there would be any chance of his being here tomorrow night?"

"The likeliest chance in the world. If a man's wolfish with hunger—and you'd think some of them were wolfish the way they eat—there's a heap of comfort in even a mouthful of bread and a cup of coffee."

"If I should come tomorrow night—"

"I'll give you any help you want," said the officer kindly, as Dorcas hesitated.

"I don't believe I'll want help. The only thing is—I wish to do it as quietly as possible. It is altogether a family affair."

"I understand. You'll find me here."

"Thank you. Good night," said Dorcas gratefully.

"I didn't bring Mr. Merry tonight, Jason," she said, when the old servant opened the door for her; "but tomorrow night I think he will come."

The following day seemed to Dorcas the longest she had ever lived through. The weather was crisp and cold. She went for a long walk, treading for the first time a tangle of streets in the vicinity of the docks. It was a part of the city which belongs to the very poor. She searched everywhere for one figure. Poverty, famine, and hopelessness seemed to create a family resemblance among men, women, and children. Still—she found nowhere the man for whom she looked. When she reached home at noon she felt tired physically and mentally. She had spent an almost sleepless night. As she dropped off in a drowse she dreamed of finding Merry, of bringing him back to the world where he belonged, of setting his face towards fame, happiness, and an honorable life.

Not a thought of love—the love of a woman for a man—stirred in her heart. She had forgotten her brother's question. There was something singularly childlike about Merry. With his magnetism was blended a strange dash of childish dependence which a few men never lose. It had appealed to the maternal instinct in Dorcas the first time they met.

From morning till night she waited anxiously for news from her brother, but none came. She realized that he was on the wrong clue, but he had left no address, and Dorcas could merely wait. After her walk she lay down to rest on the library couch. A few minutes later she was sleeping peacefully as a child. When Jason came in he closed the shutters noiselessly and covered her with an afghan. The city lights were ablaze when she woke. She waited impatiently for hours to pass. The policeman had told her it was of no use to come to his corner until eleven or later; it was past midnight when the bread was dispensed. The clock struck eleven when a carriage Dorcas had ordered stopped at the door. Jason hovered anxiously about her.

missy, please." He was trying constantly to manage her as he had done when she was a little girl.

"Jason, I don't need it; I'm perfectly warm."

"All right," laughed the girl, and she slipped her arms into the wide sleeves. "Just to please you, Jason—remember that—not because I'm cold. Now," she added, "don't get nervous if it is an hour or two before I return. I shall be quite safe. Mr. Merry will come back with me tonight, I know. Have everything as cozy and cheerful as possible. And—Jason—I've got my key. I'll ring when I want you. Don't bother about opening the door."

The girl's intuition told her that Merry might have fallen to such low estate that it would hurt for even the old servant to see him. The negro understood.

"I know, missy, I'll do des ez yo' say—but fo' de Lawd's sake do take care ob yo'self. What could I say to Marse Enoch if anythin' happened to missy?"

"Nothing's going to happen, good old Jason," cried the girl, as she ran down the steps.

The officer was waiting at the corner. He beckoned the cabman to pull up where an electric light would not shine into the carriage, then he stopped for a minute at the window.

"I'll stay near by and keep my eye on you. When you see your party, signal me. I'll give your cabby the order, and he can drive around a block or two and take you up Tenth street. Then slip out and get your young-friend that way. There ain't no hands deep in his overcoat pockets, his eyes were fixed on the whitening sidewalk beside him. Dorcas turned to the opposite window and nodded with an eager gesture to the officer. His hand went up. He spoke to the cabman in a low voice.

"Drive round through University place to Tenth—then up toward Broadway. Pull up half-way down the block."

The man turned his horse and moved down the street.

MRS. WINN'S ADVICE TO WOMEN

Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and be Restored to Health.

Kansas City, Mo.—"The doctors told me I would never be a mother. Every month the pains were so bad that I could not bear my weight on one foot. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and had not finished the first bottle when I felt greatly relieved and I took it until it made me sound and well, and I now have two fine baby girls. I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly for what it has done for me. I always speak a word in favor of your medicine to other women who suffer when I have an opportunity."—Mrs. H. T. WINN, 1225 Fremont Ave., Kansas City, Mo.

Read What Another Woman says:

Cumming, Ga.—"I tell some suffering woman every day of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it has done for me. I could not eat or sleep, had a bad stomach and was in misery all the time. I could not do my housework or walk any distance without suffering great pain. I tried doctors' medicines and different patent medicines but failed to get relief. My husband brought home your Vegetable Compound and in two weeks I could eat anything, could sleep like a healthy baby, and walk a long distance without feeling tired. I can highly recommend your Vegetable Compound to women who suffer as I did, and you are at liberty to use this letter."—Mrs. CHARLIE BAGLEY, R. 3, Cumming, Ga.

WANTED: Everybody to read the Want Ads in tonight's Gazette.

He turned and stared at her.

chance of him seeing you come up behind, as he would if you crossed the street."

"Has the bread line begun to gather yet?" she asked.

"Hardly, ma'am. There's a few stragglers hangin' round. Them that come first get the first chance, of course, only it's a nasty night to wait outdoors with an empty stomach."

Dorcas glanced at the handful of men cowering in a shadowed corner. A sudden fear seized her, the feminine terror of midnight streets.

"You don't imagine," she whispered, "that I shall have any trouble? It is possible I am making a mistake in the man. Are there dangerous characters among them?"

"Not exactly dangerous," said the officer slowly. "If they're dangerous it's from hunger. It ain't once a year you find a crook in the bread line. It's too easy to spot them, waiting as they do for an hour or two in that light."

"Thank you," said the girl. She crouched behind a half-drawn curtain in the shadow of the carriage, watching eagerly the gathering of homeless, hungry men. They began to creep toward the bakery from every direction, most of them with a shambling step that told of ill-shod feet or shamed reluctance to beg for food. The skies had been lowering for hours, and just before midnight the first storm of the winter came down. It began with keen, tiny needles of ice, but they stung and froze, for the wind drove them in merciless, piercing flurries. The loitering men crowded together and turned their faces sullenly from each another.

"You mus' put on yo' big fur coat,

missy, please." He was trying constantly to manage her as he had done when she was a little girl.

Dinner Stories

"My husband is just getting over a spell of sickness and I want to buy him a shirt," said Mrs. Binks. "Yes, ma'am," replied the clerk. "Would you want something in a stiff bosom?"

"No, sir," said Mrs. Binks. "The doctor says he must avoid anything with starch in it."

"This infant may some day make himself heard in the world," said the clergyman about to christen a baby boy.

And the next moment when the youngster felt the cold water the good clergyman's words came true.

Musical Query.

Another thing we don't understand about a grand opera orchestra is why all the fiddlers finish at the same time when they are playing different tunes.

Fill Your Ad. With Information About Your Proposition

"I read so much about the power of the Press. About how the Want Ad Page, for instance, will satisfy—well most every known want. I am from Missouri. I have an empty house. I ran an ad and did not rent it. Talk is cheap."

All the above and much more of the same sort from a disgruntled resident of our city. All because he did not get a resident for his empty house when he spent a whole quarter on a three line ad in his home town paper.

His next door neighbor also had an empty house, also ran an ad side and side with him. But his neighbor was "there, when it came to running an ad." He told so much about his house, in such glowing terms, that you most wanted to move out of your very own place to locate in so desirable a home.

Do your own deducing, and learn HOW to use the want ad page.
